MESSAGE FROM THE HEADTEACHER

Dear Families

The weeks are simply flying by and this week has been another wonderful one.

Summer Reading Challenge Assembly

This week's assembly was all about the library Summer Reading Challenge. Nick and Jackie visited us from Hunsbury Library and shared with all of the children how they can take part in this year's reading challenge called Marvellous Makers. To find out more click here and we really hope that as many children will take part as possible (there is even a prize for the school with the most entries). You do not need to go to Hunsbury Library, you can visit any library but register our school. We are also offering a house point for every child who completes it! So... let's get reading!

Year 1 get Muddy!

Well... not really, this week Year 1 went off to Muddy Education in Flore, where they learnt all about habitats and eco-systems in order to support their Geography and Science learning. The children were extremely well behaved and a happy, outdoor day was had by all! Thank you, Year 1 team, for organising and what wonderful weather we had!

Year 4 Visit Franklins Gardens

We've had a few weeks now packed full of rugby fun and this week Year 4 got to visit Franklins Gardens and enjoy everything rugby. It was such a great day and wonderful to hear from the children how much they enjoyed it, especially those who had never visited a stadium before.

We have nearly finished all of our sports days now (just Year 5 & SU to go!) and we have been so lucky with the weather. Please do let your class teacher know your views on the format of them and any improvement you feel we could make.

Smile!

Also, this week we had our class photos which were taken by Pret-a-Portrait. The class photos are taking a more traditional style but the individual photos taken in September will be a blend of formal and relaxed for you to choose from. We really do hope that you like them.

Holiday Clubs

Have you booked your place at Oak Holiday clubs yet? They are running here at EHPS during the first two full weeks of the summer holidays. Click here to book a place.

Next week is the bumper special newsletter when I share information about staffing, environment updates and the results of the parent survey etc so keep your eyes peeled.

I look forward to seeing you at our school fete tomorrow. It starts at 10am when the dancing and fun begins! Fingers crossed for the weather.

Ms Pennington

SU NEWS - ORANGE CLASS

This term Orange class has been filled with aliens, space facts and experiments! We are currently learning how to use descriptive words to describe aliens, ready to make our very own fact file.

In science so far, we've made a sandwich bag explode, a balloon blow up without touching it and created an eruption with coke and mentos. We have learnt about the importance of the sun, for life on Earth and created our very own mini solar systems with all the planets.

The children have also been slicing, dicing, grating, and chopping all sorts of food to make their own snack!

It has been wonderful to see the progress Orange class have made using Numbots. They work very hard and believe in themselves when working through the maths problems. They are, rightly so, very proud of themselves!

Healthy mind, healthy body challenge

We are very excited about our PE and PSHE Healthy Mind, Healthy Body challenge. Each week, there will be a PE or PSHE task based on a specific skill for that subject that you can complete at home, either by yourself, with your siblings, or with the whole family!

These activities are not compulsory but are a great way of learning or practicing news skills. You can always show your teacher that you've completed these via the class dojo. Make sure to look for these jobs in the newsletter each week.

Mrs Roberts, Mr Black and Mr Clarke

You will need:

- A marker to tell you how far you've moved.

How to participate:

12 Top Tips TO SUPPORT MENTAL WELLBEING THROUGH NATURE Online and Offline

"Nature" is a superb choice as the theme of this year's Mental Health Awareness Week, as there's clear evidence that getting access to nature is excellent for our mental health. With Covid-19 restrictions beginning to ease, it's the perfect time of year to rediscover the natural world and give ourselves a calming, uplifting treat. You don't have to drag the family on a four-hour hike, either – just 10 minutes each day in the garden, in the local park or your nearest green space could really help. Here are 12 suggestions for ways you can benefit from nature – both online and off.

ONLINE

- 1 Give something back to nature
A swift internet search for a birding up of details of any local conservation projects and schemes or litter-picking events that you could enrol the family in. It doesn't have to be a long-term commitment, most schemes are grateful for every bit of help!
- 2 Tranquil streams
Search your preferred music player for some soothing instrumental tunes. A few minutes' gentle audio of rain, ocean waves or birdsong are all great ways of unwinding at the end of the day to get yourself for an excellent night's sleep.
- 3 Give geocaching a go
If you've not heard of it, geocaching is a modern twist on the traditional treasure hunt. It's basically for items hidden in outdoor locations, using GPS-enabled devices like a mobile phone or tablet. We'd recommend that an adult accompany any young adventurers.
- 4 Share what you see
While you're out exploring nature, take a photo or video of anything you find that inspires you. Not only will it be a nice memory for you to look back on, but you could also share it safely on social media and maybe motivate others to engage with the natural world!
- 5 Watch the stars
Looking at the night sky can be incredibly calming. There are some comprehensive stargazing websites and apps to help you locate and recognise different stars. It can take 20 minutes or so before you can see stars fully in the dark, even on clear nights, so allow your eyes time to adjust.
- 6 Wildlife on the web
A Google search will bring up lots of sites that stream webcam footage of nature. From sea turtles to barn owls, rabbits to badgers, you can get an intimate, heart-warming view of all kinds of animal communities from inside the comfort of your own home.

OFFLINE

- 1 Ditch the phone
Now the weather's improving, go for a walk in a green space nearby. If you're already familiar with your chosen route, you could always leave your phone at home to be completely free of the usual distractions and notifications.
- 2 Put down some roots
Planting flowers, shrubs, herbs or vegetables can be extremely rewarding. Not only does it help us to connect with nature – it also provides a strong link to project to draw pleasure from. If your home doesn't have a garden, no problem: a window box will do the job just as well.
- 3 A different kind of tweet
Most gardens in the UK attract a wonderful variety of birds, and just watching them for a few minutes can be immensely rewarding. There are some excellent apps and sites to help you name any species you don't already know or even play a game identifying bird song. See bird song blogs!
- 4 Feed your feathered friends
Hang a bird feeder where you can easily see it from a window. Then enjoy the buzz of activity of satisfied avian visitors perching where you can see them. For something more advanced, you could try building a nesting box to fix onto a fence or under a window sill.
- 5 Park your worries
If you're lucky enough to live within easy travelling distance of a park, you'll benefit from using it. Whether it's a play ball game, get on your bike, walk the dog or just get some fresh air into your lungs, the potential benefits for mental health are enormous.
- 6 Art and soul
Younger children will enjoy drawing or painting animals or nature scenes, or writing a poem or song lyrics about nature. For extra fun or challenge, you could collect natural materials – leaves, feathers, tree bark or seeds, for example – to use in your creations.

Nature Wellbeing Tips

- Draw, paint, write about nature
- Stargaze at night
- Go Geocaching
- Visit the local park for a walk or bike ride

What Parents & Educators Need to Know about GAMBLING

Gambling can be defined as betting or risking money or something of value on the outcome of a situation involving chance. Under current regulations, gambling is legal for adults in the UK, its potential impacts on the wellbeing of individuals, families and communities are well documented – emphasising the importance of safeguarding children and young people against these hazards.

WHAT ARE THE RISKS?

MANIPULATIVE ADVERTISING
Adverts for online bookmakers and betting exchanges can raise concerns about targeting vulnerable groups, creating addictive and misleading expectations, impacting mental health, offering an escape from reality, creating challenges, influencing minors and other at-risk groups. Effective regulation, banning regulatory advertising practices and public education are essential to mitigate these concerns and protect the wellbeing of children and young people exposed to manipulative advertisements.

ADDICTIVE FEATURES
All gambling products carry safety concerns, but some can be even more addictive. The frequency with which people can place bets can encourage them to do so often – with rapid spins and multiple betting options – meaning betting an entire evening, via highly engaging and habit-forming features. These features, combined with other elements, can increase the risk of excessive gambling, particularly among young people.

PEER PRESSURE
Exposure to gambling through friends, influencers or social media can normalise risky behaviour and create unrealistic expectations about the chances of winning. Addressing peer influence requires support services, responsible education, parental and effective education on the subject to minimise the impact on children and promote healthier choices.

IMPACT ON MENTAL HEALTH

Gambling can exacerbate mental health issues such as anxiety, depression, and stress – and lead to gambling among young people. Those with existing mental health conditions may see gambling as a coping mechanism, but the cycle of gambling can worsen their symptoms, creating a detrimental impact on overall wellbeing. Targeted support services and treatment options are crucial to address these concerns for children and young people.

GATEWAY BEHAVIOURS
Certain features of other products – such as video games that offer in-game purchases – can lead to gambling among young people. These mechanisms are sometimes designed to exploit psychological vulnerabilities, creating a detrimental impact on overall wellbeing. Targeted support services and treatment options are crucial to address these concerns for children and young people.

FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES
The most common impacts of online betting come in the form of financial losses and debt. This, in turn, can lead to increased pressure of family, deterioration of relationships, mental health, and peer exclusion and stress. These factors can increase the risk of making it difficult to pay bills, leading to financial difficulties and a cycle of debt.

Advice for Parents & Educators

ENCOURAGE OPEN DISCUSSIONS

Spending events can be a good opening for conversations about gambling, as some professionals may not have been told and encourage frequent conversations about any concerns they may have. Adults, influencers and social platforms may also have gambling products, so it's important to encourage their critical thinking skills to help them avoid being manipulated by this type of marketing.

KNOW THE WARNING SIGNS

Parents and educators should be vigilant for signs of gambling harm among young people. Look for changes in their behaviour such as increased anxiety, withdrawal from family, mood swings or withdrawal from school. Encourage open conversations about gambling risks and maintain a supportive, non-judgmental environment. Try to limit time spent with devices and replace with exercise and guidance.

MONITOR SPENDING

In-game purchases can be appealing to children, allowing them to unlock new features or cosmetic items in a fraction of the time it would take to win them by playing. Talk to children about how they spend money online, so they can avoid in-game purchases they may not encourage the conversation. Consider setting up restrictions on their devices, requiring that parents or carers give permission before making any purchases. Talk about finances regularly and openly.

GET FURTHER SUPPORT

Support and treatment for young people is available via the Young People's Support Centre at Be-Care, which can be contacted on 0800 8000 112. A link to their money advice has been included in the source of this guide, along with links to several other support networks. Your GP and local NHS gambling advice are also available. If you require additional advice, don't hesitate to reach out for help. If you're concerned about a child's gambling behaviour or their financial situation,
